Your Connection
to Information, Resources, and Networks

Bringing together diverse stakeholders to accelerate the market for clean transportation technologies and fuels and secure our energy future.
More than twenty years ago, CALSTART was formed as a non-profit organization to build a fuel and technology neutral national alternative fuel and advanced vehicle technology marketplace.

To achieve that goal, CALSTART works in collaboration with leading national manufacturers, suppliers, fleets, government agencies and research institutions to grow a clean transportation technologies industry which will clean the air, create jobs, decrease our dependence on oil, and reduce greenhouse gas emissions.
CALSTART’s 150 member companies represent all regions of the country. Members rely on CALSTART to:

• Facilitate industry networking;

• Provide up-to-date information on policy and funding;

• Keep them apprised of industry trends; and

• Identify opportunities to work together to find solutions to move the advanced vehicle technology market forward.

Together, we are building state-by-state momentum, demonstrating a compelling business case, and devoting time and resources to solid policy in support of clean transportation. In partnership with member companies, we are driving transformative change.
